St. J. E. Ouellet of the Carleton Place Company has established a cooperative store for his fellow workmen in the Carleton Place Hotel of Ottawa.

The store is called the Food of Mr. Ouellet and is situated in the Carleton Place Hotel. It is a store for the Carleton Place Hotel workmen and is a store for the Carleton Place Hotel workmen.

1. The first step is to identify the problem. This involves understanding the current situation and what needs to be changed.

"Well," said the Pike county man, "about eight to ten days ago a grizzled fellow took my new work down the street to get my name engraved on it free gratis so's it wouldn't get lost, and I'm kind of tired of waiting, so what I want to inquire is—is there interest in the engraving trade and are all the Pittsburgh engravers out on strike or something?"

NO INSURANCE ON HAPPINESS

Lloyds Refuses to Take the Risk That Seems to Be Involved in International Marriages.

About the only thing the Lloyds will not insure is happiness to follow an international marriage. While some American women who wedded representatives of the nobility of the old world found happiness, a vastly larger number found failure to be their portion. The honeymoon trail of these internationalists shows many shipwrecks. As a rule the representative of the nobility seeks a mate among the wealthy who have unsatisfied social ambitions. Given these conditions, the chance for presentation at court, the glamour of a title, the exclusiveness of social relations with the titled great, cause many a young woman to forget prudence and have made many fathers and mothers willing to approve a heavy bet on a slim chance.

The long string of women who have come back across the Atlantic broken hearted and slim of purse since Nellie Grant made her unhappy alliance has taught little wisdom to those who are courted by the fabled but oftentimes penniless nobility.—Ohio State Journal

Although Modern Medicine credits medical science with having accomplished wonders during the late war in eradicating or reducing diseases that have previously ravaged fighting armies, it maintains that disabilities resulting from the war are due in more cases to disease than to wounds. Figures compiled by the English ministry of pensions show that of all the pensions granted down to September 1, 1918, 53 per cent were on account of disease. Tuberculosis and chest complaints were responsible for 11.2 per cent, rheumatism for 6.5 per cent and heart disease for 9.9 per cent. Only incomplete figures are available concerning American experience, but of 7,710 cases dealt with by the federal board of vocational up to January 31, 1919, by far the greater portion were due to disease.—Youth's Companion.

Penitentiary Farm's Success.

Included in the report of the governor of the Edmonton, Alberta (Canada), penitentiary to the superintendent of penitentiaries is an interesting paragraph dealing with the farm operations carried on at the penitentiary as well as its mining operations. Some 70 acres were under cultivation during the past year and were farmed with gratifying results. From this small acreage, after buying a tractor and stubble plow at a cost of $1,314, "we show a net profit of $4,191.11. From 9½ acres of wheat we thrashed 45 bushels to the acre, and from 1 acre of potatoes we sold 356 bushels. Our oats yielded 85 bushels to the acre, and the amount of small vegetables was exceptionally good. Our intensive farming has been very profitable."

Historians of the Hawaiian island assert that an Hawaiian monarch was the first government in the world to put absolute prohibition into effect.

Kamehameha the Great, first king of United Hawaii, in 1795, after having conquered all the other islands, issued an edict imposing prohibition. Its penalties were drastic. An offender was stripped of his property, real and personal, and was driven from his village clad only in a loia cloth.

In later years foreign nations forced liquor on the Hawaiians and its sale was general in the islands until the great war, when, with the opening of the army training camps on the islands, prohibition went into effect.

Why Hair Nets Are Dear.

The hair net business of Chongqing, China, is in a state of chaos owing to complications caused by buyers from Shanghai going directly to the market in the region of Chungchowfu and then competing with the firms with which they had contracts. Consequently the price has increased about 300 per cent.

When Will Prices Come Down?

No one seems to know. We must confess we do not, although we are constantly in touch with the country's foremost manufacturers and merchandising centers. Already the next cotton output has been contracted for at higher prices.

Of course there are times when the end of the season forces a clearance of overstocks or when "left-overs" must be sold at lower prices, such as our wonderful sale of Men's Suits at $13.75, $15.75, and $18.75, and our sale of Men's Soft Hats at $1.98. However, at least seven-eighths of our present stocks throughout the entire store could not be duplicated at the present time to sell for as little as they are now marked.

But We Do Know that the business of this institution is to supply the public with the highest grade merchandise at the lowest possible prices at all times regardless of the high strung conditions.

We Will Not Indulge In Explosive Sales

However, when an opportunity for obtaining high grade merchandise at low prices, but in keeping with the dependable standards of Berryman quality, is presented, we consider it our duty to put forth special effort to take advantage of such for our patrons.

We are today giving some exceptional values in our selling of COATS, SUITS and DRESSES in our Ladies' Ready-to-Wear department. All we ask is for you to come in and look and compare our prices with other stores and we are sure you will take advantage of our exceptional prices.

Good Fertilizer for Ferns.
Nitrate of soda dissolved in water should be given to ferns that are small or weak, but do not make the proportion of nitrate more than one-quarter of an ounce to the gallon, but large plants, and those of vigorous growth should be watered with a solution in proportion of one-half an ounce of nitrate to the gallon. Apply about every ten days. Soot and salt are also good.

Stage's Loss Literature's Gain.
England's censorship of the drama caused Fielding to turn from playwright to novel writing. Fielding began his literary career as a dramatist, and by his political satires brought about the establishment of the censorship in 1737, the bill being introduced by Walpole, one of Fielding's victims. With playwrighting thus barred to him, he turned his attention to the novel.

Worry May Cause Death.
Medical science has recently explained how worry commits its murders. It has reached the conclusion that in many instances of what have been regarded as lunacy, and from which the victim finally dies, the case has simply been one of acute worry. Instead of the person dying of mental breakdown, he has worried himself to death.

Naturally His First Thought.
An American gentleman went over the field of Waterloo with a guide, who boasted that he escorted General Sheridan over the scene of Napoleon's great defeat. "What did General Sheridan say?" asked my friend. "Oh, nothing." He must have said something. "Well, he only said: 'It was a good place for a fight!'"

Science Pursues Criminal.
Ultra-violet rays used while photographing a forged check are said to render detection absolutely certain. The forger uses a chemical ink eraser to remove some portion of the writing, but even though this be done so skillfully as to defy detection, under a high-power magnifying glass the rays reveal in the photograph a heavy smudge where the erasure occurred.

Some Profit.
A handful of raw pig iron, weighing about five pounds, is worth five cents. From it 60 table-knife blades can be made, of a value of $15. Converted into steel watch springs, there can be about 110,200 of those tiny coils made from it. They sell for $1.75 a dozen, which would bring the neat sum of $16,070.83 for the five cents' worth of raw metal.—Browning's Magazine.

Origin of Two Old Sayings.
"Going to the dogs" comes from the east, where dogs are scavengers of the streets, and become so unclean as to be unfit to touch; while the expression "Tell it to the marines" used to show disbelief in the truth of a story, arose from the fact that when the marines first went abroad they were naturally rather "green" concerning nautical affairs, and someone who related a very tall yarn was told to "tell it to the marines," the idea being that they could be more easily gulled.

Our Friends and Enemies.
The things which our friends do with and for us form a part of our lives, for they strengthen and advance our personality. But the things which our enemies do against us do not form part of our lives; we only experience them, reject them, and guard ourselves against them as against frost, storms, rain, hail or any other external inconvenience which may be encountered.—Goethe.

Two Sides to the Shield.
The Charleston Enquirer says that married men live longer than bachelors because it is so easy for the former to increase their pleasures. When they strike a streak of luck they feel twice as fine as bachelors because they add their wife's joy to their own. A sophistical argument, which sounds well enough as long as you suppress the fact that bad luck goes double, too.

Mummy Eyes.
Mummy eyes, as they are called, are taken from the bodies of Bolivian mummies, but bear no resemblance to the human eye. They look like glass shells with gilt inside, and in spite of their being solid, they are delicate and very easily broken. When exposed to dampness the gilt appearance is lost and they resemble a piece of yellow crystal.

On the whole we make too much of faults. Faults? The greatest of faults, I should say, is to have none.—Thomas Carlyle.

Growing Pickaninny.
"Lordy, Rastus, why don't you let 'em suspenders out, as I tells you? Be-fo' long youab feet won't touch de groun!"—Pennsylvania Punch Bowl.

Short Jenks' Threats.
Short Jenks is always threatening to give a written guarantee, although every one knows he can't write.—Amusements.

Building Character.
It's folly to build with neutral materials. Character demands touch with God and co-operation with one's fellows. There may be some with desire to be considered clever who dare to assume positions that throw them into the limelight and the ridiculous. They may condense up cute-sounding phrases trimmed to capture itching ears without giving a thought to what real meaning they may convey. It's dangerous to vent wholesale disaster upon those of other faiths. If men be given to folly it's your part to lead them to the truth.—Grit.

Chinese in Java.
The standard of living is probably higher in Java than any other Chinese community in the world. The houses are clean and well furnished, the people dress in European clothing, and every one has a great deal to say about dirt and sanitation. There are Chinese families in Java which have been there for five centuries, but the great majority of the 300,000 who live on the island have come there or are descended from those who came there in the last fifty years.

Character Revelation.
Not merely speeches prepared, orations delivered, sermons preached, but what a man says and how he says it to his neighbors, friend, to his acquaintance or customer, to his father or mother, his wife or child across the breakfast table; this is what counts, for it reveals him off his guard and taken unawares, not as he would wish to be, not even as he would wish to be thought to be, but as he actually is, and it marks him with an indelible mark.—Exchange.

Origin of the Name "Manhattan."
It is gravely given as an historical fact that Peter Minniet and his company bought all of Manhattan island for the sum of $24 after having reduced the owners to a state of intoxication. It is also stated as true that the Indians after that bit of costly debauchery, gave to the island the name of Manhattan, which it is said was Indian for "the island of blissful intoxication."

Sounds Reasonable.
"As I understand it," said a gentleman, "oleomargarine is made of beef fat." "You are undoubtedly right," said his companion. "I should think that the manufacturers would make it of goat fat." "Why?" "Because the goat is a natural butter."—Detroit Free Press.

SLOW TO ACCEPT BUDDHISM

People of Japan Loath to Embrace Faith Introduced into the Country by Korea.

Buddhism was introduced into Japan by Korea in the year 552. It was first embraced by the higher classes, particularly in scholarly circles, but the lower classes still cling to their old faith of Shintoism. The doctrines of Buddhism were written in the Chinese language and the believers offered their prayers in that tongue.

At one time Buddhism made such strides as to become the state religion in Japan, but the people still opposed it with a determination of upholding their own Shintoism, until the statesmen and priests invented an ingenious way of explaining and interpreting the religious principles of Buddhism. They adopted the theory of monotheism as well as polytheism by saying that there is only one supreme power, which is personified in the form of various gods and goddesses, according to the different countries and different institutions.

The principles of Buddhism and Shintoism were thus reconciled and, in order to convince the popular mind of this theory, Emperor Shomu patronized a movement to erect a large bronze statue of Kumbutsu or Buddha at Nara, the statue being completed in the year 752 after 14 years of casting and construction.

LIKE SWORD OF DAMOCLES

How Many Others Have Unwittingly Sat in Peril of Which They Were Ignorant?

It may have chanced that some of us have unwittingly sat under a sword of Damocles and "through good luck" rather than good management" have escaped its fall. Damocles himself was happily ignorant of his danger for a brief time.

The story, with its perfectly obvious moral, is that in the reign of Dionysius the Elder as the ruler of Syracuse in Greece, years before the Christian era, one Damocles, a member of the court, wishing to establish himself securely with the monarch, flattered him unduly. Being a good dealer of a man and believing that "dattery, like cologne water, is to be smelled of, not swallowed," Dionysius decided to teach the courtier a lesson.

He invited him to a wonderful banquet, which Damocles enjoyed greatly until he perceived above his head a sword which was held by one single hair. How soon he was able to leave his perilous station is unrecorded, but his feelings during the rest of the feast may be imagined and need not be described.

Matrimonial Oddities.

In bygone days in India women were sometimes allowed to choose their own husbands. One of their old fairy tales tells of a fair princess, who, after a tournament, placed a garland around the neck of a knight who had won her heart.

Among the Eskimos of the east coast of Greenland a man captures the girl he wants, but from that time on the usual order of things is reversed. He has to exercise the greatest vigilance to prevent her from eloping with any other man whom she may prefer, as this seems to be her privilege. In the northern New Hebrides a bride who is unhappy seeks the earliest opportunity of running away from her husband and seeking a home with some man she likes better. If her parents cannot induce her to return to the injured husband they usually send him a pig to soothe his wounded feelings.—National Geographic Society Bulletin.

Still Make Use of Blowgun.

The blowgun is still popular for hunting birds among the Kosi Indians in Louisiana. This weapon consists of a tube, usually of cane, about six feet long, rubbed smooth on the inside with an implement made for the purpose and carefully straightened with the aid of fire. Slender, pointed darts about eight inches long are used as ammunition, each one wrapped neatly along a third of its length with quartered cotton or cotton to make it fit the inside of the tube. The hunter places a dart in the tube, which he raises to his lips and with which he takes careful aim at his game; then with a quick puff of breath he drives the little dart flying with a sufficient force to impale and kill a small bird or squirrel.

America Land of Tobacco.

America is still the greatest producer of tobacco and also the greatest consumer of it, the greatest exporter and the greatest importer, too. She keeps her association with it which began with the discovery of the new world. It was the riches of tobacco as well as gold and fountains of youth that drew hither the adventurers who penetrated the new continents. Later tobacco was so precious a thing among the first English colonists that they plowed up the streets of Jamestown to plant it.

SHOWS BIG LEAD FOR REPUBLICANS

Registration figures for Westmoreland county, as recorded by the 194 precinct register-assessors in the county and returned to the county commissioners for the 1920 primary election, show a drift toward the Republican ticket and a falling away from the Democratic policies.

The total registration reaches 53,191. Of this number 34,832 enrolled as Republicans, while 18,359 cling to Democracy. These figures show a Republican gain of 800 and a net Democratic loss of 300 over the figures at the preceding election. The Socialists made a net gain of six votes, while the Prohibitionists show a loss of a half hundred voters.

Monessen, although the largest town in the county, has not the largest number of voters, being exceeded in this respect by both Greensburg and New Kensington, but the steel town gives the Republican ticket the largest majority, having a total of 2,448 for the G. O. P., while the best the unterried can do is to muster 186 voters. Monessen also has the smallest number of Prohibitionists, there being but seven who cling to the cold water ticket. The Socialists have claimed upon fifty-five citizens, while 114 are political orphans.

BEEF CONDEMNED BY HEALTH OFFICIALS

Three dairy cows bought by Lian Markovitz a butcher of Donora, for beef purposes, and brought to the Lowstuter abattoir in Charleroi for slaughter, were held up by Health Officer Darby on Tuesday until an inspection could be made by the Live Stock Sanitary Board. Dr. Waught came up from Pittsburgh on Wednesday and accompanied by Mr. Darby and Health Officer McCune of Donora the slaughter house was visited, where Dr. Waught and the health officers watched the slaughtering of the animals. After making a rigid examination one of the carcasses was condemned and ordered to be destroyed at the Charleroi garbage furnace. The other two were passed.

NO CHANGE ON THE LAKE ERIE

Freight shipments on the Lake Erie are still at a standstill, yard men at Monessen and Newell refusing the vote to return to work. I said the Glassport yardmen are willing to return but are being held out by the other two yards. As a consequence outside of what shipments are being made by express and parcels post the people must depend on truck delivery for food supplies. There appears to be no prospects for an immediate settlement unless the railroad company should bring in men from other districts to replace the strikers.

DEATH WARRANTS FOR SHEEP KILLING DOGS

Death sentence was pronounced on sheep-killing dogs of Allegheny county by the board of county commissioners at a meeting held on Tuesday. C. H. Handel a farmer of Snows township, presented a bill for $107.40 for sheep killed by dogs on his farm. The commissioners decide to employ a game warden at $7 a month to keep sheep-slaying dogs in Snows township.

BOROUGH CLERK GETS THE TAX DUPLICATE

Borough Clerk Nickeson has been advised by the county commissioners that a copy of the Charleroi tax duplicate has been forwarded from the offices by express, for use of the borough in preparing the tax list for the present year. Clerk Nickeson will make the extensions on the duplicate which they will be copied into other books for the use of the collector. The collection of borough taxes will begin in July.

Thirty-one cases of measles were reported to the Donora board of health within the past 24 hours ending at 8 o'clock this morning, and the authorities fear an epidemic.

FIGHTING RATS WITH VARNISH

New Form of Trap Used on London Docks Said to Have Had Gratifying Success.

It is computed that the London docks contain about 1,000,000 rats, which attack grain, food, and other cargoes, causing about $2,000,000 loss per annum. A society was established to exterminate this destructive enemy, but the congested state of the wharves made their schemes inoperative. Now a new benefactor has come forward with a "trap" that opens up a possibility of putting armies of rodents out of business. The process employed is simple. Traps are placed along or near rat holes. The trap is made of cardboard covered with lithographic varnish. The varnish is warmed by heating its container in boiling water till the varnish becomes sufficiently liquid, when it is spread 1-16 to 1-8 of an inch thick on pieces of strawboard or thickish cardboard, measuring about 15 in. by 12 in. A margin of about 1 in. is left clear of varnish, and bait placed in the center of the board, where it adheres to the varnish. Bags of 60 at a time have been secured. The medical officer of health for the port of London reports favorably of the antidote to the rat thief, and gives it as his opinion that once their tails stick on the board they are doomed, and that the majority die of fright. Another feature is that if two rats get on to the varnish together one of them kills the other, evidently thinking the other is holding him.

HELD BACK TIME'S PROGRESS

Announcing Hour of Noon Secondary in Importance to Mexican Servant's Other Duties.

A certain village in northern Mexico did not boast of a town clock. When twelve o'clock arrived the parish priest used to tell his servant to mount the belfry and strike the church bell twelve times, so that the villagers would know that it was high noon.

One of the neighbors, who had a watch, noticed that for some days twelve o'clock had struck a few minutes late. Thinking that perhaps the priest's watch was slow, he asked the mozo (servant) why it was that he had delayed in striking the hour. The mozo answered:

"It is this way: The padrectro tells me it is time to strike twelve; but just as I am to start up the ladder the cook tells me to get the tortillas. So I have to go after tortillas, and when I get back and climb the ladder again it makes the noon late."

Foch Saved the Day.

M. Poincaré, as president of the French academy, had the task of welcoming Marshal Foch when that soldier was a member of the academy and, in the course of his remarks said:

"Field Marshal French was on the point of moving back his heavy artillery and beating a retreat. You rushed to Valenciennes and summoned him to you. 'If we make known your weakness,' you declared, 'we shall be carried away like a wisp of straw. Keep at all costs your first corps where it is; I will myself attack on the right and on the left with French troops.' As you spoke you took a sheet of paper to the desk; hastily you scribbled four lines in which you made clear your thought and you handed the note to the field marshal. He read it, thought a moment, called a staff officer, and said to him: 'Go and carry out this order.' Disaster was averted."

Sand Long Retained Properties.

Prof. E. L. Fairchild of the University of Rochester and Dr. H. Carington Bouton of New York found the sands at Rockaway beach emitting a high musical note one summer day in 1884. They collected some of the sand and took it home, where Prof. Fairchild put in a large glass bottle a sample, but except for that one instance the sand has been undisturbed for more than thirty-five years.

Professor Fairchild writes now to Science, saying that on December 2, 1919, he poured the contents of the bottle into a stocking and found that when quickly compressed it still gave out its characteristic high note, audible at a considerable distance. But since he spread it out in a dry room and handled it considerably it has lost its sonorous quality.

Plans are under consideration for providing the larger cities of Japan—Tokyo, Yokohama, Kobe and Osaka—with more hotels. It was announced recently in Tokyo by D. Shono, general manager of the Japan tourist bureau. He said, however, that it would be some time before these hotels are erected. "Efforts are being made to relieve the congestion in the city hotels by inducing guests to travel in the country, where hotels have room to spare." It is proposed to supply wireless information to incoming boats concerning the number of unoccupied rooms in the various hotels. The matter is under negotiation with the copyables.

The Usual Thing.

"It says in the paper, here," remarked Mrs. Fields, in the midst of her reading, "that in a debate in congress Hon. Benjamin Blawie rose and shouted—"

"Don't bother to read the rest of it, Debby," interrupted Farmer Fields. "The honorable didn't say any more when he shouted than he does when he keeps still."—Kansas City Star.

ANIMAL LIFE AND CLIMATE

Abundant Proof That Extremes of Temperature Do Not Preclude Possibility of Existence.

The contention of Dr. Abbott of the Smithsonian astrophysical observatory, that because of the cold climate of Mars life could not exist upon that planet is not convincing.

Polar bears rejoice in temperatures so low that little vegetation at any time of the year exists in the latitudes in which they are found. The existence of "fishes" in Korea, which has a New England climate, supposedly changed by sea currents when the country's fauna was tropical, shows how animals common to the hottest parts of the earth adapt themselves to climate as cold by comparison with the tropics as the climate of Mars is by comparison with the regions in which the fishes live. Mice from Africa died so fast of tuberculosis in heated houses that the mortality rate forced an experiment, as the result of which African monkeys are living out of doors all the year in one of Chicago's parks.

If life as we know it, human, animal and vegetable, could not withstand the climate of Mars, might not life adapted to the climate flourish? The fabulous salamander lived in fire. An Eskimo, newly arrived in Moscow or Baghdad, could believe that since men could live in such places reptiles easily might back upon five coals and frolic in flames. Why might not life, adapted thereto, exist in a temperature of 300 degrees above, or below, zero if a man from the polar regions can become acclimated in the tropics, or vice versa?—Louisville Courier-Journal.

TAKE HIGH OFFICE MARCH 4

That Day Officially Set for Inauguration of the President of the United States.

President Washington was inaugurated for his second term, beginning March 4, 1793, and all the other presidents, except four, who were inaugurated March 5, because the 4th fell on Sunday.

The four exceptions were Presidents Monroe, second term, 1821; Taylor, 1849; Hayes, 1877; and President Wilson's second term, 1917. President Hayes took the oath March 3, 1877, and was formally inaugurated on the following Monday. President Wilson took the oath for his second term on Sunday, March 4. The usual inauguration parade took place the next day.

The question as to whether, in the event of March 4 falling on Sunday at the beginning of a term, there being an interregnum of one full day in the office, was first brought by John Quincy Adams when he was secretary of state. He applied for a dictum of the Supreme court to guide the manner of inaugurating President Monroe for his second term. The opinion of Chief Justice Marshall does not prohibit the president from taking the oath and entering his duties immediately after midnight of March 3, even if March 4 falls on Sunday.

Rare Biblical Collection.

An interesting collection of Bibles, some of which are rare books, others of which are valuable on account of their former possessors or donors, is installed in the Mount Holyoke college library. In one group are found the ancient versions of the Scriptures; the original Hebrew and Greek, including a miniature copy of the scroll of the law, called the Sefer Torah, the ancient Syriac, the Septuagint and the Latin Vulgate.

Among the four editions of the Latin Vulgate is one bearing the date 1568, with Luther's portrait stamped on the leather cover with a Latin inscription, of which the translation is, "If you wish to see the face of Luther behold the portrait; if you would know his mind, consider the book."

Little do we realize when we use this expression that we are indulging in a lot of wisdom. Unknowingly we are alluding to the classic of the classic, an old Latin fable quoted by Phaedrus from the more ancient version of Aesop. It is a fable about a baldheaded man, and as usual the baldheaded man is at a disadvantage. In this case it is a mere fly that takes advantage of him. Well, the bald-headed man was bitten on the head by a fly and when he attempted in retaliation to smite the insect he succeeded only in giving himself a vigorous slap on his bald pate. Whereupon, according to Aesop, the fly said jeeringly: "You want to kill me for a touch—what will you do to yourself now that you have added insult to injury?"

Our First Person Singular.

Is not English the only great language in which the pronoun of the first person singular is capitalized? How monumentally imposing is that upper case "I." If a writer is egotistic the capitals stretch across his page like a colonnade. When he writes "we" he descends to the lower case. But this orthographic solipsism mark you, is shared by Americans, Canadians, Australians, New Zealanders—all who use the English tongue. It is therefore not to be set down to insularity, but to individualism—a stark, ineradicable, valuable quality of these various folks whose thoughts and feelings have been nourished by the same language.—Henry Van Dyke in Scribner's Magazine.

As representatives of the oldest and largest rubber concern in the world, we have a reputation to live up to. We can't afford to substitute "just as good" tires for tires of standard quality.

The first thing a man wants to know nowadays, when he starts out to buy a car, is how much it is going to cost him to keep it running.

It's all very well to take some dealer's word about a tire—if you know who he is and his object in selling it to you.

Our object in selling U. S. Tires is to have you come back for more—and be glad

New Idea in Storing Coal.

The ingenious plan of storing coal in carbonic acid gas, as undertaken at Dortmund, Germany, gives the safety from spontaneous ignition of under-water storage, while the container offers the convenience of the overhead bunker. Each of the three cylindrical bunkers constructed, with a capacity of 2,500 tons, has semi-spherical top and bottom, and three filling openings at the top, with three discharging outlets at the bottom. The lower outlets are gas tight when closed, but as the carbonic acid is much heavier than air the upper openings do not require being absolutely leak proof. A grab on a structural steel tower unloads the coal from a barge. The coal is dropped into a small hopper, and then fed to a push-plate conveyor, which is so placed that it may serve in filling or emptying the three bunkers. The small amount of carbonic acid gas that leaks out in removing coal can be readily replaced.

The human stomach as diagrammed in the encyclopedia resembles the map of South America, and as a potentiality exercises the revolutionary characteristics of that realm. It varies in size; in youth being longer than thick, and reaching from the chin to the heels; in ripe maturity being thicker than long, and reaching from the back two feet beyond the natural plumb line.—American Magazine.

To Remedy Rattling Windows.

Do not allow yourself to be made wakeful and nervous by rattling windows or doors when the comb on your dresser makes a perfect wedge, easily inserted and as easily removed. Especially annoying are such noises in hotels and other strange bedrooms, but even there the comb is at hand and equal to all sizes of cracks.

Millions Spent for Soda.

Authorities in the drug business estimate the number of soda fountains in use in the United States at not less than 75,000 and they are said to represent an investment of $50,000,000. The annual receipts of these supplies of soft drinks may total $50,000,000.

Defect Which Made Supreme Courtroom "Whispering Gallery"—
Has Been Remedied.

According to the Washington Star, the "whispering gallery" of the United States Supreme Court has been eliminated. It was Chief Justice White, called it a "whispering gallery" in a letter to Elliott Woods, superintendent of the court building.

The defect was caused by the fact that the court room was built on a hill, and the sound of voices was reflected by the walls and ceiling.

The defect has now been remedied by the installation of sound-absorbing material on the walls and ceiling.

The cost of the work was $10,000.

The work was completed in a few days.

LOOKED LIKE SURE TROUBLE

Little Woman in Courtroom Was involved Over Colored Man's Spectacular Appearance.

During a trial of a colored man in the circuit court recently on a charge of murder, there was considerable nervous tension in the courtroom, the result of remarks that had been made that a colored man was "going to start something" regardless of the outcome of the case. The courtroom was crowded to capacity, and several police officers were stationed about the room.

At an impressive moment, while the defendant was on the witness stand, a commotion was heard at one of the courtroom doors. Into the midst of the nervous spectators walked a large colored woman who carried in one hand a formidable-looking rifle. Policemen and detectives seized her and rushed her into an outside room, where they began examining the weapon. It was not loaded. She explained that she had been in juvenile court in a case in which the rifle had been used as evidence.

Before going home, she said, she decided to hear some of the evidence in the murder case. She and her rifle were sent out of the building, and the murder trial was resumed.—Indianapolis News

Power from Volcanic Steam.

In 1905 Prince G. Rossi, general director of the Larderello works at Larderello, Italy, decided to experiment with the natural steam springs of Larderello for obtaining motive power. His experiments were so successful that the company built a large power station at Larderello with three units of 2,500 kilowatts each. The work, says The Illustrated London News, was begun in 1914 but was delayed by the European war. The first unit was started in 1916, and the power station was completed in the same year. Four overhead lines at 38,000 volts carry electric current to Siena, Leshorn, Piombino and Massa. The holes bored to the natural steam pockets, which vary in depth from 198 feet to 495 feet are lined with iron tubing sixteen inches in diameter. The steam is cleared of gas before it is carried to the turbine generators.

The latest Clemenceau anecdote that is going the rounds of the boulevard is to the effect that the premier was annoyed because a tree in the neighboring garden overshadowed his. The tree was the property of some Jesuit fathers, on whom M. Clemenceau called, politely explaining that his attitude to the church was unchanged, but he would regard it as a personal favor if the Jesuit fathers would cut down the tree, "because it prevents me from seeing the heavens." The Jesuit father who received him was very courteous and was much flattered by the premier's call. He promised that the offending tree should be speedily removed, but he added, with the suave smile of the ecclesiastic: "I am afraid, M. le Premier, that just the same, you will not see heaven."—London Morning Post.

His "College."

During debate in the New York state assembly one day, when Gov. Smith was a member of that body, another member arose to a question of personal privilege and announced that "I had won the boat race at Poughkeepsie, adding that he was a graduate of Cornell. This started a reminiscence meeting, other members rising to tell the name of their alma mater. Smith finally rose and announced:

"I am a graduate of the F. F. M." "What college is that?" "Fulton Fish Market."—World's Work.

Brick Couldn't Feaze Him. A negro stopped a brick at Washington the other day, after it had fallen ten stories and was traveling with the velocity of a cannon ball. When the brick hit William Moore, the negro, on the top of the head, the brick broke into bits. Moore sat down suddenly and apparently was a subject for the coroner. Workmen sent hurriedly for a physician, but before he arrived Moore sat up. "What d'ye want to do that for?" he demanded angrily of a workman. Examination of Moore revealed that all he suffered was a headache.

Art and Common Sense.

It is of no use to spend money by the handful on the arts unless it is done with common sense and a love of those arts. The arts are stronger than ourselves. We must serve them faithfully. If we talk in an impudent manner about "elevating" an art we are only giving ourselves away and showing our ignorance. No one can "elevate" the dramatic art unless he can and will write a play higher than "Hamlet" or "Faust" and surpassing the Greek dramatists.—A. E. F. Hornsman.

Great Poet Fast Worker.

Byron worked fast. He once told a publisher that he was like a tiger, and if he missed his first spring went "grumbling back to his lair." Many of his works were written at fever heat when the first spring did not miss. "The Corsair" occupied ten days, and two rainy days at Ouchy were sufficient to produce the "Prisoner of Chillon." The "Bride of Abydos," though revised afterward, was at first the work of only four nights, and most of his poems, in fact, were impromptus.

Stopping at the same boarding house as myself was a young Scotsman, who was annoyed at every meal by the landlady inquiring as to the name in Scottish of the various articles on the table. On this particular day she passed the meat to him saying, "What would you call that in Scotland?" He tried it eagerly with his fork then looked up seriously and replied, "Leather."—Exchange.

Dreaming to Order.

Dreams can be made to order by outsiders, but not by the dreamer. Yell "Fire!" in the ear of a sound sleeper or allow a sudden draft of cold air to play on the back of his neck and he will dream to order, but he can't go to sleep with his mind made up to dream of any certain thing and then actually dream of it. In spite of this fact, books are sold in Europe which tell what one must do in order to dream the lucky number in the lottery.

Excerpt from an interview with a visitor to town, printed in an exchange: "The velocity of time and the friction of years will never erase the pleasure of this visit. The many pleasant rides and kisses from my once sweet girl friends will ever linger with me."

Poor Provider.

An old negro in Texas was asked if he was going to register. He wished to know how he would have to proceed. On being told that he had to swear to support the constitution, his eyes widened, and, drawing a long breath, he said he couldn't do it, because he couldn't support himself.

Emery Supply Restricted.

The world's supply of emery comes from Greek islands and from Asia Minor near Syria. Importations into the United States average $250,000 annually.

Milk and Music.

It is a little known fact that the most delightful music at the present day is produced by playing on milk. The supply of ivory nowadays does not to a great extent meet the demand. Strange as it may sound, skim milk forms a substitute. It is used for making the keyboards of pianos, and in appearance this hardened substance is hardly distinguishable from ivory.

Imagination in Dreamland.

A man who awake is most prosaic, whose mind is commonplace, who is utterly unable to invent a story or write a drama, will asleep have the most astonishing flights of imagination. He imagines a story. He peoples it with players, men, women and animals, and each one of them—even the animals at times—speaks his part as perfectly as if he actually were alive.

What He Would Do.

A young lady visiting her relations on a farm went out in the yard to watch her young cousin play with a chicken. Watching him for some time she asked him: "Willie, if that chicken were to lay an egg what would you do with it?" He looked up surprised, then said: "Oh, I'd sell it to a museum. That chicken's a rooster."

Arranging for the Future.

The little girl objected, quite naturally, to wearing her older sister's outgrown clothes. One day, in protesting while being dressed with such a garment, she exclaimed: "It's real mean, and when I get married, I'm going to have my youngest child first, so that she won't have to wear her sister's old clothes."—Saturday Evening Post.

Had Gone Too Far to Change.

Little Helen and Jack had grown up together, and when Jack finally outgrew dresses and donned his first trousers Helen insisted that she, too, be allowed to have a pair. But Jack said: "No, you don't, either, 'cause you started out to be a girl and you've got to keep it up."—Chicago Tribune.

Long Life.

Sir John Lubbock, the scientist, has shown how long insects may live if preserved from accident and harm of all kinds. The greatest age attained by an insect, as far as known, was that reached by a queen ant, which lived until August 8, 1888, when she was nearly fifteen years old. Another queen of the same species died after a life of thirteen years.

Sure Enough.

"So you depend on recognition from posterity?" said Mr. Dustin Stax. "Yes," replied Mr. Penwidge. "Another generation will recognize my genius." "But how are you going to know whether the opinion of a future generation is any more trustworthy and desirable than that of the present public?"

Our Eyes Tint the World.

We view the world with our own eyes, each of us, and we make from within us the world we see. A weary heart gets no gladness out of sunshine; a selfish man is skeptical about friendship, as a man with no ears doesn't care for music.—William Makepeace Thackeray.

Paris now has a Chinese settlement, which is both law-abiding and picturesque. The first families arrived a year ago, and now one hotel shelters fifty-three Chinese in five rooms. The men are mostly engaged in making toys, which the women and children sell throughout the city.

In Company.

ALGAROBIA WILD FOREST TREE

Has Been Spread Over Barren Lands in Hawaii Without Any Effort of Artificial Planting.

The mesquite tree, or algaroba, was originally introduced into Hawaii by Father Bacheler, and planted in the Catholic mission grounds, Honolulu, in 1828. The original tree attained a diameter of three feet three inches, and a height of 60 feet before it was topped in 1846 to make room for a new city block.

The algaroba is the most valuable tree in Hawaii. The algaroba forests yield 30,000 cords of excellent wood annually, in addition to $100,000 worth of honey and enormous quantities of beans which furnish a valuable fattening food for stock at a time when the dry summer has exhausted the grass supply.

The algaroba tree begins to bear pods when 6 years old, and when these pods are eaten by stock the small horny seeds are not crushed but rather prepared for quick germination by the action of the digestive fluids. The spread of the tree without the expensive effort of planting by artificial methods over vast areas of barren lands of Hawaii has, therefore, been due almost solely to stock, and has in this manner become a wild forest tree. The algaroba in Hawaii has a very shallow root system and is subject to windthrow in very heavy storms.

HOLD CONVERSE IN JUNGLE

Expert Asserts That All Wild Animals Have Method of Communication With Each Other.

If the chimpanzees possess the most extensive ape vocabulary—and Garner, who knew the sound and meaning of about a hundred monkey words, said they do—humans have the crudest. Dr. Dimars says that those in the Bronx park collection express their emotions with a roaring bark, a faint chattering, and, when frightened, a loud scream.

"But all animal life has some method of communication," says Dr. Dimars. "In some cases it isn't vocal, but it satisfies the same need. When a lion is lonesome he puts his head close to the ground and roars. Possibly he knows the ground acts as a sounding board. With a different cadence this roar becomes a challenge, and other males take it up until the jungle reverberates with their din."

"Another roar with a different intensity is answered only by females. The lioness will listen to fix the direction from which his roar comes and will move toward him. Then she will roar, and he will move, and finally they meet."—Exchange.

Tooth Puller's Bad Reputation.

"To lie like a tooth puller" is in Le Roux de Lincy's "Book of French Proverbs" (Paris 1839), quoted from the "Dictionary of the French Academy" (1835). The tooth puller in those days was often a wandering mountebank who drew a crowd by telling Rabelaisian stories and indulging in horseplay. He sold quack medicines, and, of course, lied prodigiously. Lannegou's explanation of the origin is more amusing, though it is so circumstantial that it breeds suspicion. Furthermore—and this is conclusive—"to lie like a tooth drawer" is in Philibert Joseph Le Roux's "Dictionnaire Comique" (Amsterdam 1718) with this comment: "No one lies more outrageously than a tooth drawer, who promises not to hurt, which is not possible." And Le Roux quotes Poissone's one act play, "The Basque Poet" (1668). "But all of you lie like tooth pullers."

Flow of Language.

A colored preacher, one of the men who are never at a loss for words, was commending to his congregation one of the organs of the church, and this is how he did it: "The missionary bulletin of this church needs subscribers. It is young and unfinancial, but through the instrumentality of backbone and grit it will become an ideal. It was ushered into existence out of purely innocent contemplation of moral and religious good, which would, in all probability, result from carefully agitated principles of righteousness. The bulletin will be observed mingling in social convolutions to furnish with sheaves of harvests of those reasonable products common to social contingencies. The tone of the whole will be missionary work."

Moral Elevation.

The true greatness of a nation cannot be in triumph of the intellect alone. Literature and art may enlarge the sphere of its influence; they may adorn it; but they are in their nature but accessories. The true grandeur of humanity is in moral elevation. . . . The surest tokens of this grandeur, in a state, are that Christian beneficence, which diffuses the greatest happiness among the greatest number, and that passionless, God-like justice, which controls the relations of the state to other states, and to all the people committed to its charge.—Charles Sumner.

For the Poor.

The Revenue Collector—"You can't see that tent show and pocket the proceeds without paying the war tax. That's not a benevolence, as you claim. The Owner Manager—My friend, if you were familiar with my circumstances and my show you'd consider the purchase of every ticket a real charity."

AS TO INFANT AUTHORSHIP

Many Who Afterward Achieved Greatness May Properly Be Classed as Youthful Prodigies.

Pope, who "lapsed in numbers," had the moral courage to burn all his childish and boyish verses, including the epic, "Alexander." He took no chance of posthumous publication, says the Youth's Companion.

When little Tom Macaulay was seven years old he wrote a "Compendium of Universal History," beginning with the creation, and when he was eight a heroic poem on "Olus the Great." It was natural that his mother should have cherished those proofs of early talent and have shown them occasionally to friends; but, as his nephew, Mr. Trevelyan, neatly observes, "If the affection of one generation has preserved them intact the piety of another generation refrains from submitting them to the public."

A distinguished book collector has had printed for his own pleasure and for the pleasure of his friends the "History of Moses," composed by Robert Louis Stevenson when he was six years old and dictated to his mother. The tiny volume is embellished with a facsimile of Mrs. Stevenson's manuscript and with a delightful illustration in water colors from the hand of the little prodigy. It represents the Israelites hilariously leaving Egypt. They smoke long pipes and carry umbrellas and bundles. One of them pauses long enough to beat a protesting Egyptian over the head. The narrative is both comprehensive and concise. It won a prize from a generous uncle in 1836, and it is today as good an example of infant authorship as we are likely to read.

HONOR PAID ST. MICHAEL

In England Especially Is His Day Observed for Prescribed Ceremonials and Feasting.

There are fragmentary customs bound up with Michaelmas which have to do with birds and winged things, for no particular reason that anybody knows. Perhaps it is a chance that it is so. But everywhere in England where Michaelmas is kept a goose is sacrificed for dinner on that day and for years and years in Lincolnshire and Yorkshire a handful of the farmer's each sort of grain was scattered in the court or farmyard for the birds so that luck would come to that home stead. Queen Elizabeth was eating, you may remember, her Michaelmas goose when the defeat of the Spanish armada was announced to her. Perhaps Michael's wings were hovering over the sea that day of the defeat and that those sizzling geese all over England were a sacrifice not made in vain. And perhaps, after all, these customs of cooking geese and throwing grain to birds are only just because Michaelmas comes in the harvest time. But it is nice to think that everything with wings is in some way akin to this especial saint.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Flowers That Bring Bad Luck.

In England Devonshire folk hold that it means death to bring into the house a single daffodil, when this flower first appears in the spring. There must be a bunch of them, and the cowslip is similarly hedged in by superstition. A hyacinth in the house "brings trouble," and snowdrops are "unlucky," while wild flowers generally prevent the first brood of chickens from hatching. If one wishes a plant indoors to show a large and profuse bloom he must place in the flowerpot some fresh earth from the grave of an infant baptized within twelve months. No yellow bloom should be brought into the house in May. The house with bergamot near it is never free from sickness. A plant of heliotrope in church will keep in their places any untrue wives in the congregation.

Chautauqua or Circus.

The manager was strolling about the big Chautauqua tent, which had just been set up in a small Missouri town, and the boys were laying the plank seats, when the whir of engines was heard, and two automobiles appeared, racing furiously toward the Chautauqua grounds. They stopped side by side in the dust and smoke of heavily set brakes, and the drivers leaped from their seats and ran at top speed toward the astonished Chautauqua manager.

"I'm a butcher!" gasped the first. "I'm a butcher!" cried the second. Then both together they shouted, "I want the contract to furnish meat for the animals!"—Youth's Companion.

All Ready for Him.

At a political meeting held in a provincial town in England a crowded audience had assembled to support a parliamentary candidate.

During the speech of the candidate a man put his head in at the door and shouted in a stentorian voice, "Can anyone here sell me six pennyworth of sense?"

The speaker halted, evidently quite dumfounded; but the chairman of the meeting immediately silenced the intruder by retorting, "Yes, but you have nothing to put it in."—Youth's Companion.

Matter of Touch.

"Go away from me!" said the fashionably dressed woman to the tramp. "I wouldn't have you touch me for a dollar." "I was only goin' to touch you for a nickel, lady," came the reply.

New Figures On Tire Mileage

The Miller Tire makers, in late years, have nearly doubled their tire mileage.

In their factory tests made last year no rival tire could match the Miller service.

Miller treads outwore all rivals by an average of 25 per cent.

Large tire users are making million-mile comparisons. As high as 20 rival makes are compared with Millers. Miller Tires have already won many of these tests.

Large Miller dealers, making careful comparisons, find that Miller Tires increase their customers' mileage from 50 per cent to 75 per cent.

It is time to get new figures on tire mileage. Try a Miller, watch the mileage, compare it with the tire that you use opposite.

Hundreds of thousands have in this way come to Miller Tires. And Millers are today the most talked-about tires in America.

A Woman's Mistake

Substitutes Often Worthless

It is a well-known fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most successful remedy for woman's ills obtainable. Actually thousands of women have proved this to be true. Notwithstanding, some women make the mistake of trying something else, said to be just as good, simply because it is new.

Is it not foolish to risk the possible bad results of such experiments—and is it not better to depend upon a medicine that you know is reliable—a medicine that has had no equal for more than forty years?

Read what these Women Think About It

North East, Md.—"I was in ill health four or five years and doctor after doctor after another but none helped me. I was irregular and had such terrible pain in my back, lower part of my body and down each side that I had to go to bed three or four days every month. I was very nervous, tired, could not sleep and could not eat without getting sick. A friend asked me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am sorry I did not take it sooner for it has helped me wonderfully. I don't have to go to bed with the pain, can eat without being sick and have more strength. I recommend your medicine and you are at liberty to publish my testimonial."—ELIZABETH WEAVER, E. 2, North East, Md.

Utica, N. Y.—"I was all run down and had no energy or ambition and no strength to do my work. I went to the doctor's office every other day and could hardly crawl to get there and back. My husband wanted me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and he got me a bottle and in two weeks this medicine did me more good than the doctor's medicine had done in ten. I kept on until I had taken ten bottles and felt like a new woman. Now I do all my own work besides all kinds of dressmaking and sometimes paper hanging. I will recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as long as I live and you may publish my testimonial."—Mrs. R. C. TAYLOR, 616 Plant St., Utica, N. Y.

BELLE VERNON VOTES A BOND ISSUE FOR NEW HIGH SCHOOL

Will Expend $45,000 On A Modern Building For The District

VOTE OF BOROUGH VERY LIGHT

By a vote of 64 to 17 the citizens of Belle Vernon at a special election held on Tuesday voted to float a debt of $45,000 bond issues to secure funds for the erection of a suitable high school building in that municipality. The matter had been but little discussed before the election on Tuesday, but in East Belle Vernon it was feared that opposition and friction might result in rough sledding for the bond issue. The public spirited citizens of the community were therefore highly gratified at the result of the election. The vote was exceedingly light and the election was one of the quietest ever held in the town.

The first plan presented and discussed was to have a local joint high school, to be used by patrons of both the North Belle Vernon and Belle Vernon school districts, but this was found impracticable and the idea was abandoned.

The property on Market street rear Second street in Belle Vernon, selected as a site for the new building, will have to be condemned, it was stated on Tuesday, as the owners have refused all offers made by the school board.

The high school of Belle Vernon now has a three-year course, but it is expected that the course will be extended to a four year or modern course with the advent of a new building.

The building as it is now proposed will contain six rooms with a gymnasium and auditorium, and the members of the school board hope to be able to equip the new institution in harmony with modern appliances throughout. The need for additional space to relieve the congested condition of the schools of Belle Vernon has been keenly felt for some time.

Alexander-Barnum.

A very prettily appointed wedding took place at the home of Samuel A. Barnum, California, Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, when his eldest daughter, Miss Ruth C. Barnum became the bride of Harry S. Alexander, of Buffalo, N. Y. Rev. A. H. Elliott, of Porterville, Pa., read the service, using the ring ceremony which was very impressive. The bride is a graduate of California Normal Emerson College, and also spent two years at Goucher college, was secretary for a time of the Y. W. C. A. of California, and was interested in Red Cross work during the war. Mr. Alexander was in service and spent more than a year overseas and is now located in business in Buffalo. The young couple will reside in Buffalo.

IS HEAVILY FINED FOR SELLING "NEAR BEER"

Venito Galloni, of 1020 Fallowfield avenue, Charleroi, charged with violating the liquor laws in that he had sold "near beer" entered a plea of guilty on Tuesday in court at Washington and was sentenced to pay the costs of $500 and undergo imprisonment in the county jail for three months. He was then paroled on the payment of costs. The court has ruled that a license is necessary to sell malt and brewed liquors.

ONLY LAKE ERIE MEN ARE IDLE

Employees of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad in the coke region remain the only "hold outs" in the railroad strike, which on Monday was brought to a termination on the B. & O. and the Pennsylvania lines touching the Connellsville district. The B. & O. men returned on Monday following a vote taken Sunday afternoon. On the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania system there were, Monday evening, only ten men remaining on strike out of the 500 men out at the peak of the vacation movement. At the West Brownsville yards the men voted to return to work at a meeting held Monday morning and the crews at Rainey followed the example of the Youngwood yardmen.

While the strike itself is a thing of the past a rather phase of the situation, that of returning transportation to normal is now presenting itself in a very forcible manner. A congestion of freight at large terminal yards cannot be avoided and only time and the concerted action of railroad officials and employees can expedite the clearing of lines. It is fully expected this will take the greater part of the present week.

The Pennsylvania had a placement of 40 per cent of cars at times on Monday, but the record was not so good on Tuesday, and will be short all week because of the shortage at the present time of empty cars.

MONONGAHELA WILL INCREASE SALARIES

At a recent meeting of the school board of Monongahela, the question of an increase of salaries for members of the faculty was taken up, and it was decided to make substantial increases for the coming year. All teachers receiving salaries less than $100 per month will be increased 25 per cent; those receiving between $100 and $150 per month will receive an increase of 20 per cent; those receiving between $150 and $200 will receive 15 per cent increase, and those receiving over $200 will receive an advance of 10 per cent.

ARE HEAVILY FINED FOR SELLING "JAKY"

First action on the part of officials of Fayette county to curb the Jamaica ginger traffic resulted Monday evening in Mayor W. H. Smart of Uniontown imposing a fine of $50 each upon Sam Sabol and Michael Espey confectioners in that town, following a hearing in police court. Witnesses in each case testified as to buying a quantity of "jakey" at both places Monday evening.

The district attorney's office of Fayette county is watching the Jamaica ginger situation very closely, it was stated, and it is understood that prosecutions will be instituted where the operatives learn that the "jakey" is being sold in violation of laws governing its distribution. Since the warning was sounded a few days ago of the growth of the Jamaica ginger traffic there has been a noticeable lessening of the traffic in Uniontown, the number of arrests falling to a very few victims.

BADLY BURNED BY A LIVE WIRE

Picking up a high tension wire of the West Penn company at a point near Fayette City Monday evening, Lloyd Dull, a workman on the state highway leading to Fayette City, held the wire for three minutes while 6,000 volts of electricity passed through his body before he could be released. The wire had broken off, and Mr. Dull thinking it was insulated, picked it up. He was rendered unconscious for several hours but was revived, and it was stated that while his burns were not serious he will suffer for several days from the shock. He was taken to Brownsville and from there removed to the Uniontown hospital. This miraculous escape of the young man is said to have been due to the fact that his shoes and the ground where he was standing at the time were perfectly dry.

LYCEUMS CLOSE A SUCCESSFUL SEASON

The Lyceum Juniors of Charleroi closed a very successful season by winning 17 out of their 18 games, beating the Marquette club and Westinghouse Juniors of Pittsburgh. The team this year was composed of Schramko, Mahoney, Captain and Martinet, forwards; Connelly Arnold and H. Pitzer guards; Brown, center. The Charleroi boys claim the championship of western Pennsylvania. Earl Mahoney was manager.

FAYETTE COUNTY RAIDS "JAKY" STORES

The arrest of a number of alleged Jamaica ginger merchants in Uniontown on Tuesday marked the opening of the campaign by the county authorities against the "jakey" business, which of late has grown to such proportions that the police station in that town has virtually returned to its pre-prohibition status in the number of daily arrests made for drunkenness. It was stated at the district attorney's office in Uniontown that other individuals and places of business not in Uniontown, but throughout the county, are under surveillance and that action will be taken immediately where it is learned that Jamaica ginger is being sold in violation of the law.

In the roundup of Tuesday, which was conducted by the Sheriff of Fayette county, and by the Constable of Uniontown, ten storekeepers were arrested, while at one place 125 cases of "jakey" were confiscated. This was the greatest raid so far made in Fayette county of the ginger business and unless there is a more improved condition of affairs it will not be the last.

"STUNT" SOCIAL PROVES DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

A "Stunt" Social was held in the Sunday school room of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church Tuesday evening last, which proved to be a very enjoyable occasion. Quite a number of "stunts" were presented, all of which proved to be highly amusing. A "Rube" band made a hit with Schubert's Serenade and for an encore presented "Midnight on a Back Yard Fence" which it was said was more effectively rendered than the first selection. A "Dan'l Cupid" wedding ceremony was performed, in which Daffy-Down, Dilly, the preacher, married Lotus Flower and Violet Hepatica, during which ceremony many thrilling incidents occurred. At the close of the various numbers the social committee served refreshments.

Three Million Dollars Invested in Coal on Ten Mile

2,600 ACRES INVOLVED IN DEAL

Sale of 2,600 acres of Greene county coal for a consideration of almost $3,000,000 to the W. J. Rainey interests by the Youghiogheny & Ohio Coal company has been concluded in Pittsburg, according to information in coal and coke circles, although no official confirmation of the deal can be secured from either interests represented. It is understood that the terms of the transfer have been agreed to and that deeds of the formal sale are now being prepared.

The tract, located in what is known as the Clarksville district in the northern section of Greene county, brought $1,180 per acre, which is said to be a new high figure for coal lands in that section of Greene county. The tract is located along Ten Mile creek.

The purchase is being made by the W. J. Rainey interests, it is understood, to provide a reserve source of fuel for the by-product plant of the Rainey-Wood company in which the Rainey interests are heavily interested. Recent heavy purchases of coal land in Greene county would indicate that a large development movement would be inaugurated there just as fast as the old fields are exhausted. This will not be many years hence, and it is therefore anticipated that before a great while Greene county will be one of the leading bituminous coal producing centers of the State.

FOOD PRICES ARE SHOWING A DECLINE

With the arrival in the Pittsburgh yards of several cars of food products on Wednesday the food situation in Pittsburgh and the surrounding districts took on a more rosy hue, and there was a sharp decline in the price of cabbage, 30 cars of which were received. While produce is not arriving in sufficient quantities to occasion a general decline in prices, enough food is daily arriving to prevent any suffering on account of hunger. Butter and eggs are arriving in larger quantities and with the disintegration of the rail strike and the advent of the spring season, price declines may soon be anticipated in these lines.

In Charleroi potatoes today were selling at $1.25 a peck as against $1.50 reported on the first days of the week. The breaking of the strike brought about this reduction in price.

FILLING VACANCIES IN LOCAL FACULTY

At a meeting of the board of education of the Charleroi school district, held Tuesday evening, an additional number of teachers were elected who will assume their new duties at the beginning of the next school year. The new teachers are Miss Aline S. Dowdell of Beaver Falls, who is now a member of the faculty of the East Bethlehem school district. Miss Dawdell is a graduate of Allegheny College and will teach in the local high school next term. Miss Grace Anderson of Charleroi, who will graduate at the California Normal in June, and Miss Emma Donaldson of Allegheny, at present principal of the Dunlevy schools, both of whom will teach in the grades. All of the expected vacancies in the local faculty have not yet been filled, but the board expects to complete the list within a short time.
